Summary: The two criminals who were crucified along with Jesus had very different responses to His death. Each response, one of belief and the other disbelief centered around how each saw themselves in relation to Jesus. The same is true for us today.

Each week you will open the Bible and explore the Scripture for the week. While you're there, take a look at the verses that surround your text for the week. As you read, you might want to make a list of observations. Try to put yourself in each of the character's shoes. Make a list of questions you may not have answers to. Ask God what He may be trying to teach you.

My first impression of the passage:

Observations:

Characters (Who's listening? Who's in the story?) / Setting / Culture-

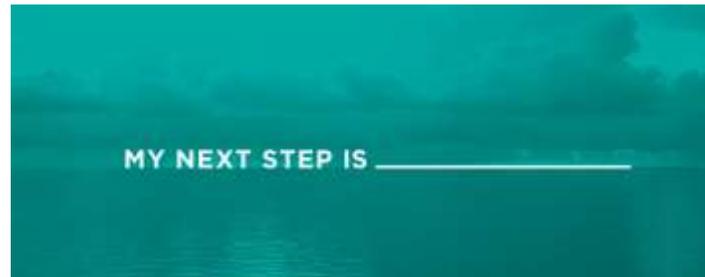

My Questions:

1. What are the differences between these two criminals?
How do you identify with each of them?

2. How easy is it to want Jesus to save us on our own terms? Why is that?
3. What might have caused the second criminal to recognize Jesus? How does that apply to your life?
4. What can we learn about the nature of salvation and grace when we look at the conversion of the second criminal?
5. How does our helplessness to save ourselves change our perspective on faith?

1. It is possible to know a lot about Jesus, but ultimately your life is unchanged? How can we make sure that doesn't happen?
